

I believe that the safety of passengers would be compromised by this rule change. Passengers on cell phones would affect a flight attendants ability to communicate with passengers. It would be difficult to hear crew directions over all the "Can you hear me now?"

In addition, it would greatly degrade the pleasure of flying. Sitting in the middle seat of a 737 for 5 hours between two businessmen trying to talk over each other would be an absolute nightmare.